ENDOWMENT that ENDOWS

ON THE LIFE-RATE ENDOWMENT PLAN

OF THE

Union Central Life Insurance Co.

By this plan not only are the dependent ones provided for in case of death, but provision for the later years of the insured himself is made if he lives. Among the policies of this class reaching maturity as endowments, and which were paid at the begining of the current year, we present the two following which will serve as illustrations of all others. We give the accumulated surplus deposit for each year, which is the reserve belonging to each policy, plus its share of the profits from all sources, less its share of losses and expenses, as stipulated in the policy

THE - NEW - YORK - ARTISTS - UNION,

No. 10 East 14th Street, NEW YORK CITY.

THIS organization embraces nothing but first-class talent. Its artists are graduates and not immature pupils. It aims to protect deserving Artists and the Public from the operations of questionable portrait and landscape dealers by bringing patrons in direct communication with the Artists.

The public is invited to give us a trial on first-class work. Our business is as clear and open as the daylight. We have no tricks or traps for the confiding. We do not ask you to buy a frame at an exorbitant price, and we throw in the picture. This is an insult to legitimate art and a downright imposition on the public. What we do ask is the privilege of making a likeness from your order, and if our work is unsatisfactory we require no pay.

We are ready to fill orders, however large, for Clubs, Lodges, Churches, Sunday-Schools, and make as large a reduction as possible on portraits or landscapes for presentation, for their advertising advantages. In this department our artists have given great satisfaction.

The Crayon Portrait more nearly resembles steel plate engraving, and can be made as fine as a Sartain's Mezzotint. The Pastel is a colored Crayon. It has attained great popularity, and is preferable to Water Colors for durability. They are both durable, but he Oil Portrait or Landscape is more durable than any. We have in our possession several Oil Paintings from 300 to 400 years of age that show no evidence of losing their lustre and beauty.

Entered according to act of Congress, in the year 1889, by R. L. Polk & Co., in the office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

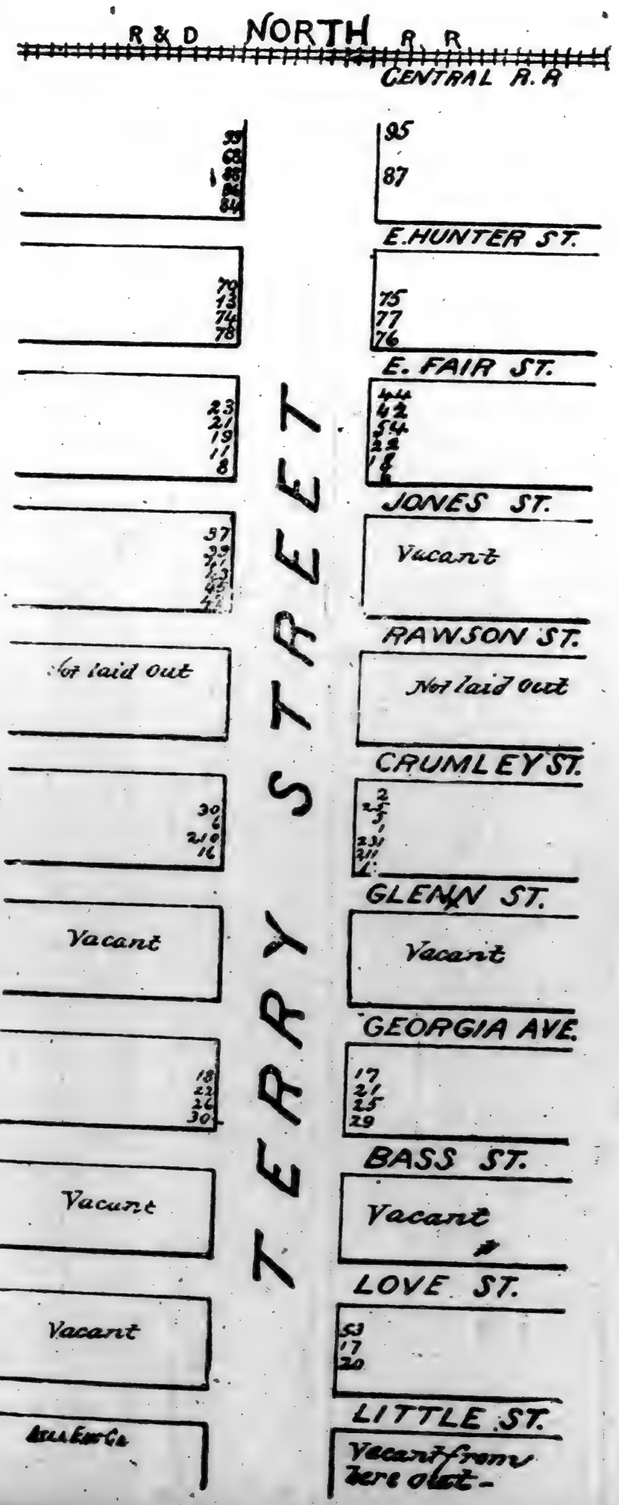
INTRODUCTORY.

Last year we published our first Directory of the City of Atlanta, which gave universal satisfaction, and we feel sure th t this, the thirteenth volume of the work, and the second of the series issued by us and now placed before its patrons and the public generally for inspection, will be accorded a generous reception and prove well worthy of praise. We desire to give the fullest assurance that the most strenuous efforts have been made to make every detail both accurate and reliable. Every house in the city and suburbs has been visited by an experienced and intelligent canvasser, and each name is printed precisely as it was spelled by the person who gave it, and if therefore you fail to find a name, do not question the accuracy of the Directory until you have searched for it under every spelling it is susceptible of, and if you still fail to find it, bear in mind that the information contained in a directory is obtained from nearly as many persons as there are names in it, and that it is barely possible that some one other than the publishers is responsible for the omission. In addition to endeavoring to give perfect satisfaction, we have also tried to give full remuneration for patronage bestowed, and in this connection desire to impress upon the minds of all in the city, that they, as well as ourselves, are under special obligation to each and every business or professional man whose card or advertisement appears in this volume, or who has subscribed thereto, and such persons should be recognized and preferred in all busines transactions. Their money defrays the expense of this publication—in fact, makes the publication possible—and they are justly entitled to the benefits accruing therefrom, as it is well known that there are in all places many who are too penurious to aid in this or any other legitimate enterprise for the benefit of the city, but who at the same time cheerfully enjoy its advantages at the expense of others.

In this connection we may mention that the value of the ATLANTA CITY DIRECTORY as an advertising medium is appreciated, not only by citizens, but very largely by business firms in other cities, about thirty pages of the work being taken up entirely by such firms' cards.

During our canvass we were frequently requested to omit the centre line advert sements which heretofore appeared on every page, as it was said to interfere with ready reference; and, desiring to conform to the wishes of the public, we have, as will be seen, acceded, although it has curtailed our receipts considerably, and at the same time makes the book appear comparatively small. There are, however, more names on a page as well as more pages in the book than last year.

The DIRECTORY contains 1055 pages and 24,667 names. Last year we made an estimate of the population based on the figures commonly used by Directory compilers and placed the population at 73,596; but, gratifying as this showing was, it did not altogether satisfy us, and this year we decided to take in connection with the directory canvass a complete census of the city and suburbs, notwithstanding it involved an additional expenditure of both labor and money. The result of this census, while not quite coming up to our anticipations is still highly creditable to Atlanta and puts conjectures as to number of inhabitants at an end. The figures which were taken during the months of October and November show that by actual count Atlanta has a population of 74,676. This of course includes the suburbs, most of which will probably be included within her corporate limits ere another directory is published. There has been a large increase in the population within the year, much larger than would appear by comparison with last years directory which is due probably to the fact that the number of inhabitants as shown by the estimate then (bear in mind that it was an estimate) was placed too high. We have found very few vacant houses during our canvass but we have come across an unprecedented number of new houses and buildings in course of erection, confined to no special portion of the city and all of which find occupants on completion.



We are pleased also to note, and it is so palpable that we cannot fail to note it, that business of every kind is prosperous; that about every one who wants to work is accommodated; that there are new business enterprises starting every day, and very few failures are reported; that the press and citizens generally are deeply interested in, and justly proud of the advancement of Atlanta; that Atlanta is by far the best paved and cleanest city in the South, as well as the healthiest on the continent, and we believe that Mayor Glenn's prediction—that two years hence Atlanta would contain 100,000 inhabitants, will be verified. In fact, during our canvass, we have noticed many other things flattering to the city—such as the excellence of her fire and police departments, the thoroughness of her sanitary department, the surprisingly small mortality, the effectiveness of her public and private educational institutions and churches, and her unequalled railroad facilities; but, as no one can fail to notice these things, even without special direction thereto, we will not enlarge upon them. On the other hand, we have noticed one thing, which, we trust, will be speedily remedied. We refer to street numbers, and think we are safe in the assertion, that Atlanta is one of the worst numbered cities extant. The outlying streets are the ones which need attention. If any one doubts this, let him take a walk down Terry street or Mills street, Hunnicutt or Glenn streets, or enquire of any physician, policeman, mail carrier, directory man, messenger boy, or any one else likely to have frequent need of finding persons by their addresses alone. We append a diagram of Terry street, from the railroad to the southern limits, which speaks for itself. It is all but impossible to construct a reliable directory in view of such numbering as this, however, we have done everything possible to obviate the difficulty.

Appreciating that our previous effort has won the confidence of our citizens, we shall strive to merit a continuance of their favors for future editions of the work. Respectfully,

R. L. POLK & CO.

ATLANTA.

VOL. XIII. 1889.

EXPLANATIONS.

In the following list it will be observed that all Streets, Avenues, etc., are arranged in alphabetical order with name of occupant found at each number. The name of each street is given, showing what other streets and places run from it or across it, with the number at which they intersect.

The Union Depot on Wall street from Loyd to Pryor is the central point of the city.

The following are the central streets from which others are numbered: Decatur and Marietta running respectively East and West, and Peachtree, West Peachtree and Whitehall, running respectively North and South.

Odd numbers are intended to be on the right and even numbers on the left of each street starting from a given point; but the system of numbering is almost too imperfect to be depended upon.

☞ To find the occupation of householders, refer to Alphabetical List of Names.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Atlanta Paid Fire Department was organized July 1, 1882; now has a chief engineer and insurance inspector, five foremen and one assistant foreman, three engineers, forty-seven men, three steamers, four two-horse reels, one hook and ladder truck in service and one in reserve, twenty horses and 9,500 feet of hose, one double tank chemical engine. The annual expense in connection with fire alarm is about $43,000. The force is paid as follows: Chief, $3,000 per year; foremen $80 per month; engineers, $80 per month; drivers, $65 per month; runners $50 to $60 per month. The Gamewell fire alarm system is used with 39 street boxes

Chief—W R Joyner; office, 25 South Broad.

When fire is proclaimed, the alarm will be sent in from the box nearest the location of the fire. On opening the box directions will be found inside for giving the alarm. After pulling hook once let go, and under no circumstances touch it again.

The fire bells to announce an alarm from box 24, for instance, will be struck twice, and after a short pause, four; then in about a minute the alarm will be repeated until four alarms have been struck. Keys to box may be found in house nearest the box. Be careful to return the key.
